

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

FACULTY RESOLUTIONS

---

Whereas, since the last Faculty meeting, Mr. M. Dwight Collier of New York city has passed away, who was long associated with us in the work of instruction:

Resolved, that the Faculty are fully sensible of the value of the services rendered to the School by Mr. Collier, as a lecturer on Civil Procedure, and of the importance of the plan which he suggested and initiated for the increase of the library by contributions from the Alumni of the University in each state of the official publications of that state. The School loses in his death a firm friend, whose long-continued, sympathetic interest in its development, wise counsels and generous financial aid have been deeply appreciated and will be greatly missed,

Resolved, that the Dean be requested to send a copy of this minute to Mrs. Collier.